Section One:

Thursday, Nov. 6, 7:30-9:00 p.m.
Public Keynote Address and Kickoff Event. Reception to follow.

Orlando Patterson, John Cowles Professor of Sociology, Harvard University, “Freedom and Disenchantment in American Capitalist Culture”

Friday, Nov. 7, 8:00-9:00 a.m.
Breakfast and Registration

9:00-10:30 a.m.
Race and Ethnicity Panels

Panel 1:1 Capitalism and Slavery
225 ILR Conf. Center
Chair and Comment: Joshua Rothman, University of Alabama

Edward Baptist, Cornell University, “The Half Has Never Been Told: Slavery and the Making of American Capitalism”

Panel 1:2 Biography: Malcolm X, Muhammad Ali, and Jesse Jackson
525 ILR Conf. Center
Chair and Comment: Russell Rickford, Cornell University

Michael Ezra, Sonoma State University, “Muhammad Ali and the Struggle for African American Economic Power”

Mark Malisa, The College of Saint Rose, “Capitalism is Racism: Seeing this Country through the Eyes and Words of Malcolm X”

Enrico Beltramini, Notre Dame de Namur University, “History of Black Capitalism: Jesse Jackson’s Economic Thought”

Race and Ethnicity

Panel 1:3 Native America and Capitalism
425 ILR Conf. Center
Chair and Comment: Brian Hosmer, University of Tulsa

Chantal Norrgard, Independent Scholar, “Treaties, Industrial Capitalism, and Ojibwe Labor in the Lumber Industry”

Daniel Mandell, Truman State University, “Meeting the Challenges of Capitalism: New England Indians in the Nineteenth Century”

James Carson, Queen’s University, “A Culture of Capitalism: The Market Place Economy of the Native South, 1780-1840”

Panel 1:4 African Americans and Economic Rights
329 ILR Conf. Center
Chair and Comment: N.D.B. Connolly, Johns Hopkins University

Andrew W. Kahrl, University of Virginia, “Dispossession via Taxation: Fiscal Policies and Coastal Capitalism in the Sunbelt South”

Shirley E. Thompson, University of Texas at Austin, “The Lives of Black Folk: African-American Life Insurance and the Business of Posterity”

Panel 1:5 Capitalism and Cool
229 ILR Conf. Center
Chair and Comment: Naeem Inayatullah, Ithaca College

Joel Dinerstein, Tulane University, “The History of Cool from the Postwar (Not Selling Out) to the Present (Selling In)”

10:30-11:00 a.m.
Break
Section Two:
Friday, 11:00 a.m. -12:00 noon: Plenary

Panel 2:3 Corporations and the Environment

12:00 noon -1:00 p.m.: Lunch

1:15-2:45 p.m.: Built and Natural Environment Panels

Panel 2:1 Real Estate

Chair and Comment: Matthew Lassiter, University of Michigan

Claire Dunning, Harvard University, “Community Development Corporations and Capital Investment in 1980s Urban Development”

Paige Glotzer, Johns Hopkins University, “‘We Are the Men Higher Up:’ Early Suburban Developers and Their Networks”

Sara Stevens, Rice University, “From Swindlers to Experts: Professionalization in Real Estate Development”

Ben Zdencanovic, Yale University, “The Invisible Congress: The American Real Estate and Building Lobby, Transatlantic Housing Policy, and the Making of Free Enterprise Conservatism, 1943-1949”

Panel 2:2 Land and Nature

Chair and Comment: Aaron Sachs, Cornell University

Emma Hart, University of St. Andrews, Scotland, “From Field to Plate: Commercial Space and Capitalizing Cultures in the British Atlantic Livestock Trade before 1783”

William D. Bryan, Pennsylvania State University, “‘Permanent’ Growth and Environmental Degradation in a Developing Region”

Jason Newton, Syracuse University, “Common Labor, Common Lands: Farmers, Lumberjacks and the Rise of Industrial Wage Work in the Northern Forest, 1850-1900”

2:45 – 3:00 p.m.: Break

Panel 2:4 Managing the City

Chair and Comment: Samuel Zipp, Brown University

Michael Reagan, University of Washington, “Capital City: New York in Fiscal Crisis”

Destin K. Jenkins, Stanford University, “The Public Housing Monster: Race, Municipal Bonds, and the Problem of Capital”

Brent Cebul, American Academy of Arts and Sciences, “Our ‘responsibility to the city and the people of Cleveland:’ The Rise of Business Producerism and Municipal Default in Cleveland, Ohio”

Betsy A. Beasley, Yale University, “Wildcat: Outsourcing, Expertise, and Oil in Postwar Houston”

2:45 – 3:00 p.m.: Break
Section Three:

Friday, 3:00-4:00 p.m.  Plenary

Jackson Lears, Board of Governors Distinguished Professor of History, Rutgers University, “The Wild Card: Animal Spirits in American Economic and Cultural Life”

4:15-5:45 p.m.  Intellectual and Cultural Panels

Panel 3:1  Schooling for Business

Chair and Comment: Glenn Altschuler, Cornell University

Amy C. Offner, University of Pennsylvania, “The War on Poverty and Business’s War on Public Education”

Bryant Etheridge, Harvard University, “Substandard Wages or Substandard Workers?: Human Capital Development and Racial Inequality in 1960s Houston”

Panel 3:2  Management Culture

Chair and Comment: Julia Ott, New School

Ryan Acton, University of California, Berkeley, “’We have the Best or We Are Dead’: Harvard Business School, Meritocratic Culture, and the Origins of the Great Divergence, 1945-1980”

AJ Murphy, Columbia University, “Creativity and Coercion: the Idiom of Culture in Management Theory”

Panel 3:3  Religion

Chair and Comment: Kevin Kruse, Princeton University

Heath W. Carter, Valparaiso University, “Christianity, Capitalism, and the Power of Working-Class Belief”

Panel 3:4  The Bureaucracy of Information

Chair and Comment: Josh Lauer, University of New Hampshire

Tamara Plakins Thornton, University at Buffalo, SUNY, “Blank Forms and Interchangeable Parts: Mathematical Values and the Creation of Impersonal Bureaucracies in the Early American Republic”

Craig Robertson, Northeastern University, “Information at Your Fingertips: Teaching Filing in 1910s and 1920s America”

Panel 3:5  Time and Capitalism

Chair and Comment: Daniel Katz, Metropolitan College of New York

Emily Pawley, Dickinson College, “A Change in Season: Capitalism and Shifts in the Experiences of Agricultural Time, 1825-1860”

Carolyn N. Biltoft, Georgia State University, “The Short Run and Longue Durée: Economics, History and the Politics of Time”

6:00-7:30 p.m.  Reception

The Robert & Helen Appel Lobby, The Johnson Museum of Art

Guy Standing, University of London, “A Precariat Charter: From Denizens to Citizens”

7:30-9:30 p.m.  Dinner

The Lynch Conference Room, The Johnson Museum of Art

Christopher D. Cantwell, University of Missouri-Kansas City, “God’s Foremen: The Evangelical Imperatives of Industrial Management”

Katherine Mohrman, University of Minnesota, “A Materialist Spirituality: The Translocation of Political Economy and Sexuality in Mormonism at the Turn of the Twentieth Century”
Section Four:

9:30-10:30 a.m. Plenary

Chair and Comment: Nick Salvatore, Cornell University

Sarah Elvins, University of Manitoba, “Putting Money to Work in the Community: Great Depression Scrip and the Contradictory Appeal of Local Capitalism”

Elizabeth Harmon, University of Michigan, “From Public Works to the Welfare of Humanity: Federally Chartered Nonprofit Corporations and American Capitalism”

Christian Olaf Christiansen, Aarhus University (Denmark), “The Market Reformers: From Late Nineteenth Century Industrial Betterment to Present Day Corporate Social Responsibility”

Thomas Dorrance, University of Illinois at Chicago, “Excavating the ‘White Spot’: The Moral Economy of the Open Shop in Depression-Era Los Angeles”

10:30-10:45 a.m. Break

10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m. Democracy, State, and Nation Panels

Panel 4:1 Capitalism and the Carceral State: A Roundtable

Donna Murch, Rutgers University
Heather Ann Thompson, University of Michigan
Julilly Kohler-Hausmann, Cornell University
Melanie Newport, Temple University

Panel 4:2 Empire and War

Chair and Comment: Stephen Ortiz, Binghamton University

Helen Pho, University of Texas at Austin, “American GI Consumerism and Inflation in South Vietnam, 1965-1973”

Gabrielle Clark, New York University, “Planned Migration in World War II”

Fritz Bartel, Cornell University, “Détente: The Privatization of the Cold War”

Panel 4:3 Early Military and Capitalist Development

Andrew J. B. Fagel, Princeton University, “America’s First Military-Industrial Complex: State Directed Economic Development in the Early Republic”

A. Hope McGrath, University of Pennsylvania, “‘An Army of Working-Men:* American Soldiers and the Making of Capital’s Empire”

Panel 4:4 Politics of Moral Capitalism

Sarah Elvins, University of Manitoba, “Putting Money to Work in the Community: Great Depression Scrip and the Contradictory Appeal of Local Capitalism”

Elizabeth Harmon, University of Michigan, “From Public Works to the Welfare of Humanity: Federally Chartered Nonprofit Corporations and American Capitalism”

Christian Olaf Christiansen, Aarhus University (Denmark), “The Market Reformers: From Late Nineteenth Century Industrial Betterment to Present Day Corporate Social Responsibility”

Thomas Dorrance, University of Illinois at Chicago, “Excavating the ‘White Spot’: The Moral Economy of the Open Shop in Depression-Era Los Angeles”

Panel 4:5 Too Much Failure to Be Big

Chair and Comment: Louis Hyman, Cornell University

Daniel Platt, Brown University, “From the Urban Crisis to Too Big to Fail: The Politics of Bank Failure in America, 1971-1984”

Dustin Walker, University of California, Santa Barbara, “The Crisis Before the ‘Crisis’: The Savings and Loan Industry before the 1980s”

Panel 4:6 Neoliberal Political Cultures

Chair and Comment: Jefferson Cowie, Cornell University

Dawson Barrett, Del Mar College, “‘Working to Overturn the Power Structure of this Country’: Activism in the Reagan Era”

Saturday, Nov. 8, 8:30-9:30 a.m. Breakfast

ILR Conf. Center Lobby

Julia Ott, Associate Professor of History, New School, “Capitalism and Democracy”
Section Five:

12:30-1:45 p.m. Lunch
ILR Conf. Center Lobby

Saturday, 2:00-3:00 p.m. Plenary
423 ILR Conf. Center

Nancy Folbre, Professor of Economics, University of Massachusetts, “The Rise and Decline of Patriarchal Capitalism”

3:15-4:45 p.m. Gender and Sexuality Panels

Panel 5:1 Gender and Labor
229 ILR Conf. Center

Chair and Comment: Dorothy Sue Cobble, Rutgers University

Bridget Kenny, University of the Witwatersrand (South Africa), “Servicing a Racial Regime: Labor, Consumption and the Polity in Department Stores in Baltimore, Maryland and Johannesburg, South Africa, 1940s-1970s”

Allison Elias, Cornell University, “How To Succeed in a Man’s World: Clerical Work and Upward Mobility”

Joey Fink, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, “The ‘Marx’ of Capitalism: Working-Class Women’s Critiques of Economic Injustice in the 1970s Corporate Campaign Against J.P. Stevens Textiles”

Nicole Greer Golda, University of Michigan, “‘The Making of Men’: Immigrant Workers and the Gendered Dimensions of American Business in Early Twentieth Century Detroit”

Panel 5:2 Early American Women, Property, and Markets
525 ILR Conf. Center

Chair and Comment: Mary Beth Norton, Cornell University

Alisa Wade Harrison, The Graduate Center of the City University of New York, “Women’s Property and Protection in Early National New York’s Market Economy”

Lindsay Keiter, The College of William and Mary, “Marriage and Markets: Wedding Gifts, Dowry Patterns and Economic Complexity in Early America”

Rachel Tamar Van, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, “Family Capital: Managing Risk and Reputation in Early American Merchant Networks”

Panel 5:3 Women and Consumerism
225 ILR Conf. Center

Chair and Comment: Lawrence Glickman, Cornell University

Beth D. Robinson, Texas A&M University, “‘Buy Conscious with the League of Women Shoppers’: Consumer Organizing during the Great Depression”

Emily A. Remus, University of Chicago, “‘Her Hat Will Not Down’: Sumptuary Laws and Consumer Rights in 1890s Chicago”

Panel 5:4: American Department Stores
425 ILR Conf. Center

Chair and Comment: Sarah Elvins, University of Manitoba

Traci Lynnea Parker, University of Chicago, “American Department Stores, Consumer Capitalism, and the Growth of the a Modern Black Middle Class, 1929-1950”

Vicki Howard, Hartwick College, “‘An Essential Industry’: American Department Stores and the State in World War Two”

Stephanie M. Amerian, University of California, Los Angeles, “‘A Store is a Citizen’: Consumer Culture and Civic Culture at Lord & Taylor Department Store”

6:30-9:30 p.m. Leisure of the Theory Class: Reception and Party
Big Red Barn, Cornell Campus
Welcome to the inaugural Cornell Conference on the Histories of American Capitalism!

The History of Capitalism Initiative, sponsored by the ILR School, is Cornell University’s intellectual crossroads for ideas, programs, research, and curriculum development on the history of American capitalism. Rather than simply focusing on elite economic actors, or the stories of markets or finance, we seek to blend social history with questions of political economy in order to build the story “from the bottom up”— all the way to the top.

Our hope is that by bringing key questions of social and cultural history into direct contact with issues of political economy, we will promote a rich dialogue around themes that have been separated for too long. Combating the notion that the “history of capitalism” leads to a single story, we very consciously chose to make our title histories—plural—in order to avoid the idea of a single, reified narrative of capitalism or capitalist development.

The conference is uniquely organized around five themes not always associated with the scholarly embrace of the history of capitalism: Race and Ethnicity; Built and Natural Environments; Intellectual and Cultural History; Democracy, State, and Nation; and Gender and Sexuality. The program is structured in a hopscotch format, in which we will all come together for a plenary address on one theme before breaking off into respective panels of interest related to that overarching theme. We will then reconvene and repeat the pattern for the next theme. By structuring the conference this way, we hope to combine shared discussions on big questions with focused research on case studies.

As a core part of this undertaking, we should all be asking ourselves one question: what does the history of capitalism as a category of analysis offer our respective fields?

We look forward to new framings of old questions, fresh arguments, new ideas, and exciting collaborations. Welcome again.

The Cornell HoCI Team

P.S. Please tweet thoughts and musings: #HOC2014 and check out our other endeavors at our website: hoc.ilr.cornell.edu/

Sponsored by the Cornell ILR School with generous support from: the ILR Pierce Memorial Fund, the Scone Foundation, and the Cornell Institute for Social Sciences, as well as the Departments of History, Economics, American Studies, Africana, and Government, and the Program in Inequality.